D. APPLETON & CO.'S NEW BOOKS.

An Imaginative Man.

By ROBERT S. HICHENS, author of "The Green Carnation." 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

The subtlety, imaginative quality, and power of psychological analysis shown in this book, which is the author's most ambitious work, will surprise even those who were prompt to recognize the originality and rare talent of his earlier performances. The scene is laid in Egypt, and the vividness and dramatic force of certain scenes are achievements of high distinction. As a study, the book stands by itself; as a story, the interest is constant and absorbing. The power and impressiveness of "An Imaginative Man" are qualities which must be recognized by the reading public.

"Mr. Robert S. Hichens is a master of epigram. The first fiction of this author is attracting much attention. His work is, both in form and spirit, ethical, social, and philosophical."

In the Year of Jubilee.

By GEORGE GISSING, author of "Eve's Ransom," "Denzil Quarrier," etc. No. 172, Town and Country Library. 12mo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.

This novel has been recognized as the masterpiece of an author whose individuality and vigorous talent have earned for him a place among the foremost English writers of fiction. The plot is novel, the characters singularly vivid, and the story possesses an unflagging interest.

"Mr. George Gissing is one of the younger British novelists, whose work shows both finish and virility, qualities not always associated in the making of books. He is a writer of unusual literary felicity and analytical talent."

The Story of the Plants.

By GRANT ALLEN. A new volume in the Library of Useful Stories. Illustrated. 16mo, cloth, 40 cents.

This timely book is a helpful and instructive addition to this successful series. The writer's thorough knowledge of his subject and his ability to express himself in clear and simple language impart a special value to his work.

Handbook of Sanitary Information for Householders.

By ROGER S. TRACY, M.D., Sanitary Inspector of the New York City Health Department. New edition. 16mo, cloth, 50 cents.

Dr. Tracy's scientific knowledge and practical experience enable him to treat the subjects of ventilation, drainage, care of contagious diseases, disinfection, food, and water in a manner that will prove of value to every citizen. This book has been fully revised to include the latest discoveries and methods.

A Street in Suburbia.

By EDWIN PUGH. 12mo, cloth, $1.00.

This is a study of local color like Barrie's "Window in Thrums," and some of the work done by Crockett, Maclaren, and Morrison. The nice observation and abundant sense of humor shown in these pictures of humble life will be certain to meet with appreciation.

Appletons' General Guide to the United States.

New edition, revised to date. With numerous Maps and Illustrations. 12mo, flexible morocco, with Tuck, $2.50.

Part I., separately, NEW ENGLAND AND MIDDLE STATES AND CANADA; cloth, $1.25. Part II., SOUTHERN AND WESTERN STATES; cloth, $1.25.

The most comprehensive and informing book of its class for the traveller or for any one who wishes a bird's-eye view of the country. Prepared by an American editor who has visited almost every part of the country in quest of information.

Appletons' Hand-Book of Summer Resorts.

Josiah's alarm was occasioned by a furnace said to burn almost no coal and to throw out heat enough to cause sunstroke. After a test and the burning of four tons of coal Josiah decided that the stove was a left over potash kettle once the property of George Washington. Abel Perry's funeral was provided for his son-in-law. The planning of the monument is amusingly told.

Mr Peabody deems the time has come for all who are not professedly bimetalists to array themselves together and to see that their views are expressed to the public for their instruction, and to encourage them if they are in favor of sound money to be known as such in the community. In this pamphlet he declares his own position.

Letters written to the Boston Advertiser and Boston Herald during 1894 and 1895, and an address delivered before the Massachusetts Reform Club on February 15, 1895. Mr. Peabody holds that the various silver bills have been put forward primarily in the interests of the silver producing states and not for the needs of the country. He thinks the people should be instructed in the true principles of the subject; and he urges that the practical and present-day aspect of the question should not be lost sight of in an endeavor to trace out its theoretical subtleties.

Shirley Roseleaf, aspirant for literary fame, writes a novel, which is rejected by the reader of a leading New York publishing house because it lacks realism. About this time Millicent Fern has the ms. of her novel returned to her on account of bad diction. Seeing a literary future for the disappointed authors, Archibald Weil introduces them, and advises them to write in collaboration. - The author considers his subject under three heads: 1. The sources whence the history of infant baptism is taken; 2. The earliest traces in history of the practice of baptizing infants; 3. The considerations which suggested to the minds of early Christians the idea of infant baptism, and led them to introduce the practice. He concludes that infant baptism arose about the close of the second century in North Africa, perhaps at Carthage. He can find no Apostolic tradition bearing upon the practice.

Bladensbrook of Bladensbrook was a magnificent young man of immense size and great personal beauty. His father had been killed by a kick from a horse when the boy was five years old, and all his life his mother and he had lived as the great people of the neighborhood. His affection settled upon the rector's daughter. At the age of twenty-one he by imprudent action got himself into trouble, which for a year brought sorrow to all who held him dear.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JULY 20, 1895.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE MOVEMENT FOR REFORM.

ON both sides of the Atlantic the English-speaking bookseller is once more moving for reform. In London the Council of the Booksellers' Society is arranging for a conference of publishers and booksellers to discuss existing abuses, and to devise ways and means to correct them. In New York the National Newsdealers' and Booksellers' Association is making efforts in a like direction.

While we regard with favor every attempt made to improve the conditions of the book trade, we regret that there is not more definiteness in the programme so far outlined by the leaders of the National Association. Aside from generalities such as that the "publisher and bookseller should come together," and a denunciation of the "dangerous scrubs," the department stores, we can discern nothing that seems to affect any one in particular. Nor are we even assured of the approximate unanimity of the members of the association on any one point.

It is a weakness of most young associations to attempt to dispose of a whole situation at once rather than to concentrate their whole force on demolishing the separate parts of which it is made up. Evils of long standing cannot be ended in a moment, and the wiser policy would therefore be to aim at a gradual rather than a sudden change. Let the leaders of the National Association, for instance, make a thorough canvass of its membership, so as to obtain a consensus of opinion as to which is considered the most oppressive abuse, and to be able to decide as to what the association wants to do and is able to accomplish. Then there will be time enough to call in the aid of the publisher to help its members to get it done. One obstacle removed, another may in time be assailed. This, at least, is what the Virginia Booksellers' Association has done, and to this it owes its prosperity and success, though it has as yet not extended its scope beyond the text-book field.

Another point it may be well to emphasize, namely, that good feeling between all branches of the trade is of the utmost importance. The publisher is not the hereditary enemy of the bookseller and should not be treated as such. Publisher and bookseller have sinned alike, and the former is no doubt as anxious to repair his mistakes as the latter. That the former will be slower than the latter in recognizing the need to bring about reform is only natural, but it must come in time; fairness and courtesy will go further to enable both sides to understand each other than unreasonableness and rough-and-ready methods. Upon these lines only, and with loyalty among booksellers to the common cause, can reform in any direction be accomplished.

IN the meantime while the English and American book trade are discussing the condition of the bookseller and condemning the unjust system of retail discounts that is proving his ruin, an American house has undertaken the solution of the problem by establishing an absolute rule that its books be sold only at the advertised prices. P. Blakiston, Son & Co., of Philadelphia, on July 1, reduced the catalogue prices of their publications—some two hundred and fifty titles—to prices approximating those at which they were sold under the discount method. To equalize this reduction they have rearranged their trade discounts also and announce that hereafter from Maine to California there will be but one price for any of their books.

FOR some years a publishing firm in this country, whose name, we regret, we are requested to withhold, have quietly aimed to encourage the bookseller by refusing to supply individual bookbuyers with their publications in a locality where there was a book-store. Whether the bookseller kept their stock or not, they forwarded (in the case where the buyer had already made a remittance) to the bookseller the desired book, with a check for his commission, and the request that the bookseller finish the transaction by delivering the book to the proper address. The publishing firm in the meantime informed the customer that they preferred to supply their publications through the bookseller, who in the future would keep him posted as to their new publications. The bookseller thus treated rarely needed another hint that the interests of this firm were to be carefully looked after. This firm, we should add, make a specialty of a certain line of books, and so is in a position to control its field more completely than a publisher of miscellaneous books might be able to do; the moral, however, of their attitude to the dealer is obvious enough not to need further elaboration.

THE Treasury investigation into the accounts of the Librarian of Congress admits of very easy explanation. No one who knows Mr. Spofford will consider that he is in pecuniary fault, and we do not understand that there has been any allegation to that effect, except that careless or malicious correspondents may have made such suggestion by implication rather than directly. Mr. Spofford has, however, always made the mistake of acting as his own office boy—or mailing clerk—overlooking the fact that no executive in charge of such extensive machinery as that of the Library of Congress and the Copyright Office must be, can afford to do his own detail work. For years he has, with mistaken conscientiousness, opened his own mail and handled the infinite number of infinitesimal copyright fees, and instead of depositing the checks in the bank has used them as cash in paying small bills of the Copyright Office, a system which almost defies auditing, and would be likely to send any accounting officer distracted. The one reform needed is such reorganization in matters of detail in the Copyright Office, by Mr. Spofford, as to free him from petty responsibilities and enable him to give his valuable time and force to the real and greater ones. The present investigation has been made a text by newspaper correspondents for any amount of commentary on the Copyright law, which is not always enlightening. One correspondent in particular has made the astounding discovery that if copyright owners do not comply with the law they do not obtain the privileges of the law; that is, if they do not deposit the two copies within the ten days, the copyright entry is absolutely ineffective. This has always been the law; there has never been any doubt about it; and if any publisher is careless in this respect it is his own affair.

AMERICAN BOOK COMPANY.

In the spring of 1890 some members of the leading firms engaged in the publication of school-books met for the purpose of discussing trade questions that had long vexed and plagued the business. These meetings led to the formation of a corporation called the American Book Company. In May of that year this company purchased the school-book property of five firms—D. Appleton & Co., A. S. Barnes & Co., Ivison, Blakeman & Co., Van Antwerp, Bragg & Co., and the common school-books of Harper & Brothers. Two of the firms selling to the company closed out their business and dissolved. The others continued their regular publication of miscellaneous books. Some of the partners in the dissolved firms continued in business and accepted employment with the company. Of this number death has since removed three—Mr. Blakeman, Mr. Cathcart, and Mr. Bragg.

At the organization of the company it was located at 806 and 808 Broadway, in a building not large enough for use as a factory and for the offices and stores of the company. The growing needs of the business forced the company in 1894 to look for new quarters. The University of the City of New York wishing to erect a new fire-proof structure upon the ground occupied by the old University building, arrangements were made for a new building, to be occupied chiefly by the American Book Company and used by them as a manufactory, storehouse and office building. The building shown on page 115 is about 300 feet long, from north to south, fronting Washington Square, one of the most beautiful of the small parks of the city, and extends 100 feet back on Waverly Place and Washington Place. It has good light on one-third of the east side, and thus has light and air on four sides. The company will use the seventh floor as a press-room. This is probably the finest room used for this purpose in America. The presses, as well as all other machinery, are run by electricity and there are no belts or pulleys in the building. The sixth and fifth floors contain the bindery, and the third and fourth floors and basement will form the storehouse for millions of books each year. The second floor will contain the general offices, and the first, or ground-floor, will afford space for packing and shipping, and for the New York offices. The sub-basement contains the plate vaults, storage for paper, and the engines which serve to transform the stored heat of coal into the mysterious thing called electricity, by means of which all the machinery is moved. All the presses and the binding and other machinery are entirely new, the latest and best known, and are specially intended for the particular work they will be called upon to perform.

The nine floors, counting from the sub-cellar, occupy a space of more than four acres, and this will be barely sufficient for the needs of the business. The economy of space made possible by new machinery is very great, and it is expected that the books will be produced with greater rapidity and with better printing and stronger binding than ever before.

The School of Pedagogy of the University of the City of New York and other graduate departments will occupy the upper floor of the building. For teachers, both from the metropolitan district and from distant places, the

THE NEW BUILDING OF THE AMERICAN BOOK COMPANY.

American Book Company's building will therefore be a great attraction.

The rearrangement of the various departments of so vast an establishment will take several months. As soon as it is completed THE WEEKLY will give a full description of the magnificent building.

The company publishes several thousand different school-books in the various branches. These are constantly revised and renewed as to type, maps, illustrations, etc., when any improvement seems possible. New facts of science, new boundaries and statistics in geography, and other corrections and revisions demand the service of a corps of skilled editors in keeping these books up to date. But the company claims that it has no intention of resting on its laurels, or depending upon its older publications for its continued strength and commanding position. It aims to bring out new publications in every branch wherever possibility for improvement is indicated. This determination to lead in new books as well as to maintain the standard of their older ones has led to the publication of about one hundred new books in the year just past.

MRS. FRANK LESLIE CLAIMS THE ILLUSTRATIONS.

MRS. FRANK LESLIE filed in the United States Circuit Court, in New York, on the 15th inst., an answer to the suit that has been brought by the Stanley-Bradley Publishing Company to restrain her from using certain woodcuts in a book that she is publishing, called "Frank Leslie's Scenes and Portraits of the Civil War."

She says she gave permission to John A. Somerville, J. Howard Brown, and Norman C. Miller in 1893 to use electrotypes made from her woodcuts in their book. She denies that she ever gave them the privilege to use the cuts in any other publication, but that, nevertheless, they used them in a publication called "Famous War Pictures," and then informed her that her use of the cuts in her book was an infringement on their rights.

THE ALDINE CLUB.

At a recent meeting of the Aldine Club, Frank H. Scott, president of The Century Company, was elected president of the club; James Thorne Harper, of Harper & Brothers, vice-president; Charles A. Appleton, of D. Appleton & Co., secretary, and William B. Howland, of The Outlook, treasurer.

The club has received a beautiful silver punch-bowl from Mr. Henry H. Vail (one of the directors of The American Book Co.), whose term as president of the club has just expired. At the last meeting of the council the following resolution was passed:

"RESOLVED, That in the name of the Aldine Club, the council hereby tenders to our outgoing president, Mr. Henry H. Vail, the thanks of the club for his gift of a handsome silver punch-bowl, and that the same be held by the club for use on all festive and state occasions, as an aid to good-fellowship, and a reminder of his distinguished services as president and councillor."

DURABILITY OF WOOD PULP PAPER.

ADMITTEDLY one of the important questions of the present day is as to the enduring quality of paper made from wood pulp, on which so much of the printing—and not a little of the writing—of the time is being done. In this connection the Paper Record and Wood Pulp News, a London journal, has quite an interesting article touching this matter and some others, its text being a book printed ninety-four years ago, some of the paper of which it was composed being made in the ordinary way, some pages from wood, and some from straw. Commenting upon the book, the Record says:

"The very first specimen of paper made from wood pulp alone, and that admits of ocular demonstration, has recently come to our hands in the form of a book, published by Matthias Koops, Esq., in the year 1801. Part of this book is printed on wood pulp paper, without, in the words of our author, 'intermixture of rags, waste paper, bark, straw, or any other vegetable substance from which paper might be, or has been, hitherto manufactured; and of this ample testimony can be given if necessary.'

"Ample testimony certainly exists that Matthias Koops obtained patents in the years 1800 and 1801, for the purpose of 'manufacturing paper from hay, straw, thistles, waste and refuse of hemp and flax, and different kinds of wood and bark, fit for printing and other useful purposes.' If further corroboration is necessary, we find it in a special Act of Parliament in the reign of His Most Excellent Majesty, George III., giving encouragement to Mr. Koops in his endeavors to utilize these substances in the manufacture of paper.

"Our friend succeeded in making an excellent wood pulp paper, which has stood the test of nearly a century, and in this year of grace, 1895, remains a perfectly strong sheet of paper which, had not age slightly discolored it, and had Mr. Koops been in possession of a stack of calenders, would compare favorably with some of our modern news. Not only did Mr. Koops do this, but with prophetic eye he looked into the future, and saw the great rôle that wood pulp was to play. He declared that it could be substituted for foreign wood for many purposes, that it might be utilized for covering buildings, and for the manufacture of 'carriages, chairs, and elegant household furniture, and for a variety of purposes.'

"From the patent records we find that Mr. Koops reduced the wood into shavings, and then cut them in a chaff cutter into lengths of about two inches. These shavings were first boiled in a large quantity of water (two gallons to each pound of material) for three-quarters of an hour, and then soaked in milk of lime (one and one-half pounds of lime per pound of material) for six, seven, or eight days, as circumstances required; at the end of that time the lime liquor was drawn off, and the material washed and boiled in clean river water, after which it was manufactured into paper by the usual methods employed at that date. Mr. Koops sometimes added to the lime-water one pound of 'crystal of soda' for every thirty-six pounds of raw material, and sometimes allowed the material to ferment after boiling the second time, but did not consider this essentially necessary; he had an idea that it sometimes improved the color.

"He candidly informs us that he had hitherto only effectually made paper from willow and aspen, as he found that wood which contained much turpentine or resinous matter could not be usefully or beneficially employed. In order to protect his patent thoroughly, and at the same time unwilling to make any rash admission which he could not prove, he quaintly observes that, 'though I have mentioned Thames water, I do not mean to infer that it is indispensably necessary to use Thames or river water in all cases; spring water may probably do equally as well, but that I am unable to state with certainty.'

P. BLAKISTON, SON &amp; CO.'S REFORM MEASURE.

P. BLAKISTON, SON & CO. have issued the following circular to the medical profession in the United States:

Moved by the dissatisfaction that has existed among physicians and the book trade in regard to the irregularity of the prices at which medical books have been sold, we have determined, on and after July 1, 1895, to make all our prices absolutely net.

With this end in view we have made a general reduction in former prices, so that those who have hitherto purchased at a discount will be able to buy at about the same price as before, and those who have paid full catalogue price in the past will in the future profit largely by the change.

Previous to this our publications have been retailed at prices varying twenty per cent., in other words, the physician in one locality paid $5 for the same book that his contemporary in a neighboring town may have purchased for $4.75, $4.50, $4.25, or even $4. Such a system was manifestly unfair and bad business policy. Hereafter prices will be the same in all parts of the United States.

In making this arrangement we have carefully considered the interests of the medical profession at large, and of the bookselling fraternity, upon whom they depend for their supply of new literature.

Without claiming any credit for putting an end, so far as we are concerned, to a most unwise and partial system of which injustice was the chief factor, we ask the support of the profession for our new policy of one price to all, which, among its other advantages, is based upon sound business principles, justice, and common-sense.

COMMUNICATIONS.

A REMEDY FOR UNDERSELLING.

DALLAS, TEXAS, July 1, 1895.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

SIR: It was with keen satisfaction that I read the communication of Messrs. Preston & Rounds, of Providence, R. I. I heartily concur in their suggestions. It is my opinion that this is indeed the true solution of the "publisher's-price-and-our-price" condition of affairs in modern bookselling. That it is practicable one has only to point to the example of how Spalding Bros., the manufacturers of trade-mark sporting goods, stopped price-cutting on their lines this past year. The contract which they make every jobber sign that handles their goods is in every respect just what the publishers could use without prejudice to any one. That there is no difference in the conditions surrounding the sale of copyright books and goods protected by a copyrighted trade-mark is obvious. I would urge every bookseller to obtain one of Spalding's contracts (A. G. Spalding & Bros., 126 Nassau Street, New York), and study its conditions;* if it meets their approval as a measure that could be applied with profit to the book trade, they ought to bring all the influence they command to bear on the publishers that it may be adopted by the book trade in connection with the remedy suggested by Messrs. Preston & Rounds. Surely, this is a gleam of dawn after our long night of darkness! I do most earnestly hope that when a practicable remedy has been found for the underselling evil, every one interested will press forward with all his energy focused on the one idea of applying the remedy. The publishers themselves will welcome the change; for, as conditions now exist, they are placed in the attitude of overcharging when their advertised price is compared by the public with that of the department store; moreover, when the publishers advertise in the most popular magazines their late books, with the announcement "for sale by all booksellers, or sent on receipt of price, etc.," they furnish the department store with a chopping-block on which to cut up the business of the local bookseller, and also give more effect to the undersellers' claim of "publisher's [and bookseller's] price and our price."

When a publisher makes a book, and advertises the fact that he considers it worth one dollar and then disposes of it wholesale to people who he knows will retail it for seventy-five cents or less, he must not be surprised that the public have come to believe that the whole book trade—publishers as well as booksellers—are liars, and that the only "full-value" people on earth are the department stores.

In conclusion, will any publisher, from the standpoint of fairness to all men, give me a reason for giving discounts on books to preachers and teachers? Do these latter discount their salary? Don't they hold out for the highest price their services will bring, just like other men? The explanation will, I am certain, interest all men engaged in selling books. There is but one class of human beings on the top of the earth—or beneath the sea, for that matter—to whom the publisher should give a discount, and that class is the one which circulates his books and thus gives honest work for a fair recompense. Whether that class be composed of booksellers, or proprietors of department stores is of no consequence, if all are allowed to appear equally honest in the eyes of the book-buying public.

JOHN KERRIGAN.

[* We are informed that A. G. Spalding & Bros. do not have a formal contract, but simply a voluntary pledge on the part of the jobber to maintain prices. When a jobber breaks faith with them they close his accounts and refuse to supply him further with their goods. This pledge they are unwilling to make public; they have, as a matter of fact, refused a request to that effect from this office.—ED. P. W.]

BOOK PRICES AND DISCOUNTS.

WASHINGTON, July 8, 1895.

THE entire retail book trade of the United States have been placed under obligations to Messrs. P. Blakiston, Son & Co., of Philadelphia, by the action they have recently taken in the matter of prices and discounts on the medical books published by them. Messrs. Blakiston have revised their price-lists, have fixed a fair retail price upon all their books, and have notified the trade of the discounts they are prepared to give to dealers. They will not sell their books at any price different, and will refuse to sell to any dealer who retails below the advertised price.

This is an honorable, a reasonable, and a proper thing to do. The result naturally follows that the retail dealer does not hesitate to buy Blakiston's books in quantities and carry them on his shelves, knowing that the publishers will not become his competitor and undersell him to his own customers.

Every publisher should follow this example. Fictitious prices, which are only used for deceptive purposes, should be abolished. An honest retail price should be placed upon every book. That price should be maintained, and everybody should learn that there is only one price for the book. The publisher should give the retail dealer a decent commission, and then he should be honorable enough to protect that dealer by refusing to sell the book himself or allowing any other dealer to sell it at any other than the fixed price. Such a course would stimulate the book trade to an unprecedented success so far as net results are concerned, both to publisher and retail dealer. It would result in building up legitimate book-stores, and correspondingly check the dry-goods annexes, which have destroyed the regular retail trade. At any rate, the more highly respectable and reputable publishers can afford to do this, with both honor and profit to themselves. Of course there are some houses whose love for the visible dollar outweighs all considerations of a higher order, and from them nothing can be expected.

W. H. LOWDERMILK.

COPYRIGHT MATTERS.

COPYRIGHT FOR SPANISH AUTHORS.

THE President on July 15, in accordance with the reciprocity provisions of the new international copyright law, issued a proclamation extending the privileges of United States copyright to publications copyrighted in Spain.

Satisfactory official assurances were recently given the State Department that in Spain and her provinces and colonial possessions the law permits to citizens of the United States the benefit of copyright on substantially the same basis as to the subjects of Spain.

ENFORCING THE COPYRIGHT LAW ON THE CANADIAN FRONTIER.

THE post-office authorities in Montreal, according to a press despatch to the New York Times, have again succeeded in circumventing the attempt of those who are engaged in shipping reprints of valuable music to the United States, thereby infringing the American copyright act.

Some time ago six large sacks of contraband mail matter, which had been expressed at Toronto for Montreal, were mailed at Montreal with a view to eluding the customs officials. The mail was placed in six bags by local officials, sealed, and mailed to the United States officer at St. Albans. There the mail was found to be contraband, and was seized. The contents were valued at $5000. On Saturday, the 13th inst., two more bags were detained here.

Since the action of the Montreal authorities in the matter the shippers have been sending their reprints of music to other points in Canadian territory by express from Toronto to be mailed in order to avoid the Montreal postal authorities. The shippers have been working on Sherbrooke post-office and other important points near the line. The Canadian authorities have aided the United States officials considerably in unearthing this means of defrauding the United States and breaking the copyright act of the country. It is estimated that many thousand dollars' worth of reprints of valuable American music have found their way into the United States from Canada.

COPYRIGHTING THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE.

ON the morning of July 4, The Post, of Washington, D. C., and other newspapers in various sections of the country, published a fac-simile of the Declaration of Independence, some of the papers going to the absurd trouble and expense of copyrighting the venerable and historical document. That the Declaration should be copyrighted 119 years after its promulgation, and in the face of the fact that it has been frequently reproduced in all its original accuracy, excited a great deal of surprise, and Librarian Spofford was called upon by a representative of the New York Tribune for an explanation. What he said will be of interest to persons who have to do with the publication and copyrighting of books and documents.

"It is one thing to copyright something," said Mr. Spofford, "and another thing entirely to have that copyright sustained. Under the law I am compelled to record a copyright for anything that is brought to me. I cannot act in a judicial capacity and determine whether a person who seeks a copyright is the author or is entitled by priority to secure the privilege he asks. I remember once that Mark Twain came to me and complained that a number of his early contributions to Western papers had not only been published without his knowledge or consent, but had actually been copyrighted by the literary pirates. 'Sam' Jones' sermons used to be taken in shorthand by unprincipled people, and then copyrighted and published, the real author, of course, not receiving a cent in the way of profits. The same scheme was tried successfully with Ingersoll, but now he copyrights his lectures before he delivers them. So you see that an amendment to the Copyright law is sadly needed. In this case of the Declaration of Independence it is absurd to think that the copyright would hold for a minute if a test case was made in the courts. The document is everybody's property. There can be no question about that. Still, if you brought me the Constitution of the United States I would have to record its copyright if you paid me the legal fee. The Bible has been brought here for copyright any number of times, and every time the request is granted. As for the protection which such a copyright would grant—well, that is a question which some court would have to settle."

BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATIONS.

VIRGINIA BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION.

To the Book Trade of the United States:

THE annual conference of the Virginia Booksellers' Association will be held at Virginia Beach, Va., July 24 and 25. The book trade generally is invited to meet with the Association.

The expense of the annual gathering well repays those who attend; the social intercourse brings out mutual interest in each other's success, suggests improvement in our manner of conducting business, and creates many pleasant remembrances, giving you personally a most delightful time of recreation.

Please make arrangements to attend this most important meeting.

T. S. BECKWITH, President.

W. L. BILISOLY, Secretary and Treasurer.

BROOKLYN NEWSDEALERS' ASSOCIATION.

AT the semi-annual election for officers of the Brooklyn Newsdealers' Protective and Benevolent Association the following were elected unanimously: P. J. McGrath, president; P. J. Barry, vice-president; G. H. Cornell, recording secretary; J. Lunt, financial secretary; D. Sheen, treasurer, and A. Stonhous, sergeant-at-arms.

OBITUARY NOTES.

WE regret to note the sad death of John Wilkins Carter, of the firm of Carter, Dinsmore & Co., who was drowned on July 5, at Harwich, Mass., while bathing. Mr. Carter was born in Boston, in 1843. He entered Harvard in 1861, and in the second year of his course enlisted in the regular army as a private. He remained in the field with his regiment until it was so reduced that it was retired, Mr. Carter in the meantime having been promoted to the lieutenant-colonelcy. In 1867 he purchased an interest in the firm of Carter & Brothers, of Boston, paper dealers and manufacturers of Carter's inks. After the great fire in 1872, in which his factory was completely destroyed, he associated with himself J. P. Dinsmore, and by 1883 had succeeded in raising his establishment into the very first rank.

DAVID A. DABOLL died on July 8 at Center Groton, Conn., aged eighty-two years. He was the publisher of "The New England Almanac and Farmers' Friend," which has been issued by the Daboll family since 1773. Four sons survive Mr. Daboll, one of whom, David A., Jr., will succeed his father in the almanac publishing business.

THE older members of the Booksellers' and Stationers' Provident Association will regret to hear of the death of Dr. J. B. Wilbur, who for many years was examining physician of the Association. Dr. Wilbur was the oldest and perhaps the best-known medical examiner for insurance companies in this country, and at the time of his death was seventy years old.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

MRS. HENRY NORMAN is understood to be the author of "Gallia."

"THE MARTIANS" is the title of Du Maurier's forthcoming novel, which, however, as already noted, will not be issued in book form until 1897.

THE trustees of Johns Hopkins University have invited Prof. Sir Archibald Geikie to be first lecturer on geology on the Williams foundation.

DR. CHARLES WALDSTEIN will deliver his inaugural lecture, as Slade Professor of Fine Arts, at Cambridge, taking as his subject "The Study of Art in Universities."

CHARLES KINGSLEY's daughter, Mrs. Harrison ("Lucas Malet"), has written a new novel with the queer title of "The Power of the Dog." The hero believes himself haunted by a dog.

DURING the trial of the action for divorce brought against her husband in London by Mrs. Craigie, better known as "John Oliver Hobbes," she stated that her maiden name was Pearl Richards, and that she was born in the United States in 1869. She was married in 1887 to Mr. Craigie, an official in the Bank of England.

ANNA KATHARINE GREEN (Mrs. Rohlf) writes that the identity of the plot of her "Doctor Izard" with that of an unnamed recent story is purely accidental. She adds that the story is all her own, except the incident in the closing chapter, which is the key to the mystery, and is based on an actual occurrence, reported in the press some years ago, and evidently used by the other author in a similar manner.

LEON DAUDET, the eldest son of Alphonse Daudet, is writing a serial for the Nouvelle Revue entitled "Les Kamtchatka," a satire against the affections and fads of literature, manners, tastes, furniture, etc., of modern fashionable life. He is also engaged on a book to be called "Le Voyage de Shakspeare," in which he will describe a journey made by the Bard of Avon to several of the places he later immortalized in his dramas. Mr. Daudet himself went last winter step by step the journey he imagined Shakespeare went.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

WALTER H. PAGE has resigned the editorship of The Forum. Mr. Page has been in the service of The Forum for more than seven years, and has had exclusive editorial control for more than four years.

The Open Court during July will contain a forcible and interesting rejoinder to Mr. Carnegie's and Senator Lodge's articles in a late number of The Forum on "The Annexation of Canada," by Prof. J. Clark Murray, of McGill University, Montreal.

Information, with the subtitle of "A cyclopædia of current events," is a new weekly edited by J. M. Stoddart, and published by The Transatlantic Pub. Co., of 65 Fifth Avenue, New York. Information of current events is given in alphabetical order, in encyclopædic form.

Ceramic Monthly is the title of a new magazine published by Ceramic Monthly Pub. Co., 85 Dearborn Street, Chicago. It is the purpose of the editor, Albert C. Baker, to "make the monthly indispensable to students of china painting and at the same time give to it such a character as will make it of interest to those who have leisure to read whether they be ceramists or not."

THE London Athenæum for July 6 contains a series of articles on the literature of the Continent during the past twelve months. Belgium is treated by Prof. Fredericq; Bohemia by Dr. J. Krejci; Denmark by Dr. A. Ipsen; France by M. Joseph Reinach; Germany by Hofrath Zimmermann; Greece by Prof. Lambros; Holland by M. Taco de Beer; Hungary by M. L. Katscher; Italy by Commendatore Bonghi; Norway by Dr. C. Brinckmann; Poland by Dr. Belcikowski; Russia by Prof. Milyoukov; and Spain by Don Juan Riaño.

The Century has secured Mrs. Humphry Ward's new novel, the first chapters of which will appear in its January number. The story is about 100,000 words in length, and will run through twelve numbers. Mrs. Ward is said to have received from Smith & Elder for "The Story of Bessie Costrell," a story of 25,000 words or so, well over $5000. Assuming that the same amount was also paid for the American book rights and at least $5000 for the American and English serial rights, without taking into consideration the amount paid for the Canadian and Australian rights, Mrs. Ward must have received something over sixty cents for each word in the story.

THE next number of the Bachelor of Arts, published from 15 Wall St., N. Y., will be called the "Vacation Number," and will be out this week. Among other matters of interest to college men and others, it will contain a timely article on Town and Gown Rows at Princeton; Thomas G. Allen, Jr., of Iowa University, whose bicycle articles in the Century last year are well known, gives a graphic account of Tashkent, one of the most remote countries of Asia, where he and Mr. Sachtleben lived an entire winter. Walter Camp's notes on athletics will be unusually interesting this month. Edward S. Martin treats, in his usual humor, of matters in the different colleges, and the book reviews contain some very interesting mediæval student songs.

MACMILLAN & Co. are preparing for publication, under the title of The American Historical Review, a new quarterly review to be entirely devoted to history. This review was founded by a conference representing some thirty universities and many eminent historical scholars. The Board of Editors includes Professors G. B. Adams, of Yale; A. B. Hart, of Harvard; H. P. Judson, of University of Chicago; J. B. McMaster, of University of Pennsylvania; W. M. Sloan, of Princeton; and H. M. Stephens, of Cornell. Prof. J. F. Jameson, of Providence, R. I., will represent the board as managing editor. Especial pains will be taken to make the Review the vehicle of matter interesting and valuable to intelligent and educated people who are not specialists; it is also designed to aid those specially interested in the study or teaching of history to reach the most recent literature of their subject, and to place before other historical scholars the results of their own investigation. Besides the main articles, on different subjects, inedited documents of value will appear from time to time; also select bibliographies and carefully prepared reviews of important books. The first number will appear in October next.

KALAMAZOO, MICH.—Roberts & Hillhouse, booksellers, who made an assignment on January 12, have closed out their business permanently. This firm had been in continuous business for thirty years in Kalamazoo, and by pluck and enterprise has passed safely through several business panics, but has been forced to succumb to the late financial depression. Its indebtedness will be paid as soon as it can realize upon its assets.

NEW YORK CITY.—Henrietta E. Munro, the widow of Norman L. Munro, has secured permission from Judge Ingraham, of the Supreme Court, to bid for and buy in, should the bid be the highest, the publishing business which her husband conducted at Nos. 24 and 26 Vandewater Street. George G. Frelinghuysen was made referee, to take testimony as to the facts which Mrs. Munro sets up in her application for the permission, and William T. Gray has been appointed guardian for the action of Norma Munro, the minor daughter of Mrs. Munro. Mrs. Munro in her petition for permission to bid says that her husband died Feb. 24, 1894, leaving the remainder of his estate to his widow, the petitioner, Norma, 15, and Henry, 12 years, his two children, equally. In his will, of which he made Frank Squier, and George Munro, his brother, executors, he directed that his business after a special edition had been run off, be sold and the proceeds divided. Although the business has been placed in the hands of agents, no purchaser has been found, and the estate, which is valued at several millions, has not been distributed, nor have the executors been able to make an accounting. Therefore, the widow asked that her disability as guardian of her two children, which prevented her from becoming a purchaser of the business, be removed.

OAKLAND, CAL.—The business of W. B. Hardy, bookseller, has been transferred by his creditors to J. P. Le Count, one of the largest creditors, by whom the Broadway store is now conducted. It is hoped that such a settlement can be made that the business will continue.

OMAHA, NEB.—Mayor Bemis has appointed Clement Chase, the bookseller and stationer, of this city, one of the directors of the Omaha Public Library, for the term of three years. Mr. Chase is also one of the executive committee of the Omaha Business Men's Association, which has in charge the autumnal festivities to be given during State Fair week in Omaha in September next.

MATTHEW BENDER, Albany, N. Y., has just ready volume 3 of the "American Electrical Cases," reporting all the important cases (excepting patent cases) decided in the State and Federal Courts on all subjects relating to the practical uses of electricity, such as Electric Railway, Electric Light and Power, The Telephone, The Telegraph, etc., etc., with annotations.

GINN & Co. will publish at once in their International Language Series an abridged edition of Daudet's "Le Nabob," with notes by Prof. B. W. Wells, of the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn.; also "Selections from Malory's Morte Darthur," edited with introduction, notes, and glossary by Wm. Edward Mead, professor of the English language, Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn.

THE INDUSTRIAL INFORMATION Co., 156 Fifth Avenue, N. Y., have in preparation a new edition of "The Reference Directory of Book-sellers, Stationers and Printers of the United States and Canada." The directory was formerly known as Farley's and has been considerably improved and enlarged. The book is not for sale, but is loaned at $15 per year, reckoned from the date of delivery.

D. APPLETON & Co. have in press a new edition, at a reduced price, of S. Stuart Frackleton's work on china painting, entitled "Tried by Fire." It will contain much new matter describing the various processes of potting and decorating. The old matter has also been carefully revised, and illustrated with designs and sketches drawn by the author. They have under way a new edition of "Uncle Remus," with illustrations by A. B. Frost.

DR. AUGUSTUS LE PLONGEON, the famous explorer of the Maya antiquities, will publish shortly an important work entitled "Queen Moo and the Egyptian Sphinx." The work will be lavishly illustrated with reproductions of photographs and drawings by the author. It will bear the imprint of Robert Clarke & Co. The current issue of the Review of Reviews contains an interesting account of Dr. Le Plongeon's life-work in Central America.

S. C. GRIGGS & Co. will publish shortly "Twenty-five Letters on English Authors," by Mary Fisher. The work treats of those eminent writers who for more than five hundred years have most influenced the thought of the world. The author attempts to make the reader acquainted not only with the character of their works, but, what is of greater interest, with them as men—what they felt and believed, their way of looking at life, and their experiences.

THE remarkable library of N. Q. Pope, of Brooklyn, considered to be the second finest library in this country, is now in the hands of Dodd, Mead & Co. The price asked for the collection, which comprises between 7000 and 10,000 volumes, by Mr. Pope was $200,000. It is not known what Dodd, Mead & Co. really paid for it. It contains several Caxtons, a set of first folio Shakespeares, rare books on early English literature, quarto plays, missals, many fine bindings and autographs. It is rumored that if the library is not sold as a whole in this country, it will be disposed of at auction in London.

THE UNITED STATES BOOK COMPANY have just ready "Legends of Fire Island Beach and the South Side," [of Long Island] by Prof. Edward R. Shaw, of New York University. Prof. Shaw is a native of Bellport, L. I., and is an entertaining narrator of the legends that make the neighborhood he describes only less famous than the Hudson River. His book will set forth the stories of "The Bogy of the Beach," "The Money Ship," "The Widow Molly," and "The Mineral Rod," some of which may be familiar to the readers of the author's "Pot of Gold," published about five years ago. Illustrations from photographs by Rudolph Eickemeyer, Jr., the eminent amateur, will add to the attractions of Prof. Shaw's book.

"THE TRADE" are warned against two plausible swindlers who have defrauded a large number of New York City book-dealers, and are now said to be operating in Brooklyn and other suburbs. They represent themselves as a married couple, dress neatly, and are between 30 and 40 years of age. Their modus operandi is to get as many expensive volumes or sets as possible, to be sold to certain wealthy customers of theirs, as they say, and the property or the money to be returned "next Monday" or "in a few days." They may pay a small sum on some trifling article as a blind to further procurements of more valuable articles. This they continue to do until pointedly refused, when they disappear. In one case at least they are known to have pawned books thus procured.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS announce a new and superb edition of Robert Louis Stevenson's works from new plates made by DeVinne, printed on fine rough-edged water-marked paper and sumptuously bound. The novels and tales will occupy eleven volumes, the travels and essays four, and the poems will be complete in a single volume, or 16 volumes in all. A photogravure or etched frontispiece will be affixed to each volume, and among the artists represented are Howard Pyle, E. H. Blashfield, Will Low, J. Alden Weir, William Hole, Walter Crane, Kenyon Cox and Alfred Brennan. There are also two portraits of Mr. Stevenson. Two volumes or more will be published each month, beginning July 15, 1895. The work will be sold only by subscription, and no order will be taken except for the entire set.

FUNK & WAGNALLS CO. will issue on the 15th of next month a new book on "Practical Christian Sociology," by the Rev. Wilbur F. Crafts. The volume will contain a special series of lectures delivered by Mr. Crafts before Princeton Theological Seminary, in February last. Much of what the author says is of the nature of expert testimony. Joseph Cook has written the Introduction, and contributed therein a biographical sketch of the author, showing how well qualified he is to make these lectures an authoritative and strategic discussion of Practical Christian Sociology, fairly representing the attitude of conservative evangelical Christians of to-day towards current social problems. He treats Practical Christian Sociology from the standpoints of the Church, the Family, and Education, Capital and Labor, and Citizenship.

A SHORT obituary notice appears in Law Book News devoted to the dead and already almost forgotten books and pamphlets issued by law publishers explaining the provisions of the Income Tax law, pointing out the methods in which it might be attacked, and discussing legal questions which might arise under the law. Some of these books which were rushed through the press with great speed when the law was first passed treated the subject of income tax legislation exhaustively. The services of some of the ablest legal writers were secured, and large editions were printed. The decision of the United States Supreme Court has rendered this whole mass of legal literature absolutely worthless, and the books on the Federal Income Tax are already on the back shelves of the library, along with the codes of procedure of several years ago.

THE PENN PUBLISHING CO., Philadelphia, informs the trade that their Mr. Charles C. Shoemaker, who hitherto represented the firm on the road, will remain at home, his place for the time being taken by Frank W. Shoemaker, who will visit the trade in the South. The West will be canvassed in their interest by Albert Rappaport. They have just ready two new juveniles—"Comrades True," by Edward S. Ellis, and "Andy's Ward," by James Otis; two popular handbooks—"Slips of Speech," by John H. Bechtel, and "Toasts and Forms of Public Address," by W. Pittenger; two new "Speakers" —"Shoemaker's Best Selections, No. 23," and "Tiny Tot's Speaker," by Lizzie J. Rook and Mrs. E. J. H. Goodfellow; the following new volumes in their Penn Pocket Translations—Cæsar's Gallic War, six books, Cicero's Select Orations, Virgil's Aeneid, Horace's Complete Works, and Xenophon's Anabasis, five books; also twenty-five new plays in their Keystone Edition of Popular Plays.

FOREIGN NOTES.

IN Paris the police have just put an end to a combination of publishers' clerks, who had banded themselves together into an "association for the sale of stolen books." Upwards of 10,000 volumes had been stolen by a most ingenious process.

THERE will be no more Rabelais' works and Balzac's "Droll Stories," with the imprint of "John Camden Hotten, 74, and 75, Piccadilly, W." Messrs. Chatto and Windus have sold the plates to Mr. Frank Murray, of Derby, who will henceforth publish these works.

ELIOT STOCK, London, will publish shortly a new edition of Hall Caine's "Recollections of Rossetti." It is to be hoped that the volume will contain the very interesting reminiscences which Mr. Caine gave recently for the first time to the members of the New Vagabond Club, of London, on the occasion of his entertainment as the guest of the evening.

NOTES ON CATALOGUES.

A CATALOGUE giving "a selection from the literary correspondence of the late James R. Osgood, Esq.," has been issued by George D. Smith, of 69 Fourth Avenue.

THE "Bibliography of Coleridge," by Mr. Richard Herne Shepherd, which has just been completed in five installments in the columns of Notes and Queries, will be privately printed in a separate pamphlet form, with additions and corrections, early in the ensuing autumn, but not published in the usual way. Collectors and students of Coleridge's works, in England or America, desirous of possessing a copy of the very limited edition, are invited to communicate by post with the author (at his private address, Camberwell House, Camberwell, S. E.), who will furnish the terms of subscription to any correspondent, and will forward copies in rotation to subscribers whose names are registered on or before the 1st of September next. The pamphlet will extend to about fifty pages in French gray wrapper, uniform with the privately printed bibliographies of Ruskin, Dickens, Thackeray, Carlyle, and Swinburne issued by Mr. Shepherd between 1878 and 1884.

A. S. CLARK, 174 Fulton St., N. Y. City. Magazines, pamphlets, out-of-print books. Catalogues free.

THE WOODWARD BOOK CO., 531 Fourth Ave., Louisville, Ky. Purchasers of second-hand medical works of recent dates. Correspondence solicited.

ORDER NOW.—The edition almost exhausted, and plates destroyed. Our Agent. We have bought the remaining copies unsold of all of BROWN'S HISTORY OF TEXAS, and offer them at reduced rates as follows: "Brown's History of Texas," 2 vols., Imp. 8 vo., p. 631 and 591. Publishers' Price: cloth, $10.00, leather, $12.00, morocco, $14.00; our price: cloth, $3.00, leather, $4.50, morocco, $5.00. The author is an old Texan, coming here before the Revolution, and enjoying the friendship of the leading men, civil and military, and a prominent actor in many incidents of the history. These exceptional advantages have been utilized in collecting historical materials for the last half century, and these volumes are the result of this "labor of love." Distinctive merits of the work: Much new matter never before published; fuller treatment of the Indian tribes and wars in Texas, and American colonization; the Provisional Government of 1835-6, and of all events since annexation. GANNETT Book Co., Austin Texas.

MACMILLAN & CO.'S NEW PUBLICATIONS.

THE STORY OF BESSIE COSTRELL.

By Mrs. HUMPHRY WARD. Uniform with "Marcella." 1 vol., 12mo, cloth, 75 cents.

"Every page shows it to be the work of an artist. The observations of the trained eye, the touches of the skilled writer, are all there, and what I like in the story is that no words are wasted in the telling. . . . The interest is too strong for one to lay the book down until it is finished. Mrs. Ward has never written anything more dramatic than this story; the agony of old John over his loss, the tragedy of Bessie's end, thrill the reader as few stories succeed in doing, though many of them make greater efforts."—New York World.

"The story is strong in construction, the characters are set forth with perfect verisimilitude, and the situations unfold from one to another with the inevitableness of fate. While the tale is under way Mrs. Ward indulges in no moralizing or explanatory asides. She leaves the characters and scenes to explain and justify themselves, and this they do fully."—The Beacon, Boston.
